

Figure 4. Structural interpretation of seismic and drill data shown together with surface geochemistry.

Hannan's seismic survey identified multiple north north and south dipping normal faults. The conceptual depth to target (hanging wall of normal faults) is indicated on the figure.

The time-depth function used to calculate the depth is based on a VSP log from the Kilbricken area.

The surface geochemical data are top soil samples collected by Hannan and Lundin.